Congressional Committees

This report presents the results of our audits of expenditures<sup>1</sup> reported by six offices of independent counsel for the 6 months ended March 31, 1996. The Department of Justice and the independent counsels are required under 28 U.S.C. 594(d)(2), (h), and 596(c)(1) (1994) to report on expenditures from a permanent, indefinite appropriation established within Justice to fund independent counsel activities. To satisfy the requirements of 28 U.S.C. 596(c)(2) and Public Law 100-202, we audit the statements of expenditures prepared by the independent counsels.

We found that the statements of expenditures presented in appendixes I through VI, respectively, for the offices of independent counsel Arlin M. Adams/Larry D. Thompson, David M. Barrett, Joseph E. diGenova/Michael F. Zeldin, Daniel S. Pearson, Donald C. Smaltz, and Kenneth W. Starr were reliable in all material respects. Our consideration of internal controls, which was limited for the purpose of determining our procedures for auditing the statements of expenditures, disclosed no material weaknesses. Further, our audits included limited tests of compliance with laws and regulations that disclosed no reportable noncompliance with the laws and regulations we tested.

The following sections provide background information, outline each conclusion in more detail, and discuss the scope of our audits.

Background

The Ethics in Government Act of 1978 amended title 28 of the United States Code to authorize the judicial appointment of independent counsels when the Attorney General determines that reasonable grounds exist to warrant further investigation of high-ranking government officials for certain alleged crimes. The independent counsel law (28 U.S.C. 591-599 (1994)) is intended to preserve and promote the accountability and integrity of public officials and of the institutions of the federal government. The Independent Counsel Reauthorization Act of 1994 further amended title 28 of the United States Code to establish certain procedural requirements and extend the law's expiration date to June 30, 1999.

The independent counsel law directs the Department of Justice to pay all costs relating to the establishment and operation of independent counsel offices and designates specific responsibilities to the Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts (AOUSC) for independent counsels' administrative support. Justice periodically disburses lump-sum payments to AOUSC for this purpose.

In 1987, Public Law 100-202 established a permanent, indefinite appropriation within Justice to fund expenditures by independent counsels. Independent counsels are required to report their expenditures from the appropriation for each 6-month period in which they have operations. We are required to audit expenditures from the permanent, indefinite appropriation and to report our findings to appropriate congressional committees.

During any 6-month period, other significant costs incurred in support of the work of independent counsels are paid from appropriations other than the permanent, indefinite appropriation established to fund independent counsel activities. These costs arise, for example, from the use of detailees from other federal agencies, such as the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI). Independent counsels are not required to and do not include such costs in their statements of expenditures. However, these costs are identified and discussed in the notes to the statements presented in the appendixes to this report.

Opinion on Statements of Expenditures

The statements of expenditures, including the accompanying notes, for the offices of independent counsel Arlin M. Adams/Larry D. Thompson, David M. Barrett, Joseph E. diGenova/Michael F. Zeldin, Daniel S. Pearson, Donald C. Smaltz, and Kenneth W. Starr present fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with a comprehensive basis of accounting other than generally accepted accounting principles, as described in note 1 to each office's statement, the respective expenditures of each office for the 6 months ended March 31, 1996. The statements of expenditures and related notes regarding the basis of accounting and additional pertinent information are in appendixes I through VI.

Consideration of Internal Control Structure

We gained an understanding of internal controls designed to

- safeguard assets against loss from unauthorized acquisition, use, or disposition;

- assure the execution of transactions in accordance with laws governing the use of budget authority and with other laws and regulations that have a direct and material effect on the statements of expenditures; and
  - properly record, process, and summarize transactions to permit the preparation of reliable statements of expenditures and to maintain accountability for assets.

We do not express an opinion on internal controls because the purpose of our work was to determine our procedures for auditing the statements of expenditures, not to express an opinion on internal controls. However, for the controls we tested, we found no material weaknesses in the internal control structure and its operations for the 6-month period ended March 31, 1996. A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of one or more of the internal control structure elements does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that errors or irregularities in amounts that would be material to the statements of expenditures may occur and not be detected promptly by employees in the normal course of performing their duties. Our internal control work would not necessarily disclose all material weaknesses.

Compliance With Laws and Regulations

Our audit tests for compliance with selected provisions of laws and regulations disclosed no instances of noncompliance that would be reportable under generally accepted government auditing standards. However, the objective of our audit was not to provide an opinion on overall compliance with laws and regulations. Accordingly, we do not express such an opinion.

Objectives, Scope, and Methodology

In order to carry out their financial operations and to ensure accountability, independent counsels are responsible for

- preparing statements of expenditures in conformity with the basis of accounting described in the accompanying notes,
- establishing and maintaining an internal control structure to provide reasonable assurance that the internal control objectives previously mentioned are met, and
- complying with applicable laws and regulations.

We are responsible for obtaining reasonable assurance about whether the statements of expenditures reported by independent counsels are reliable (free of material misstatement and presented fairly, in all material respects, in conformity with the basis of accounting described in the accompanying notes). Also, we are responsible for obtaining a sufficient understanding of internal controls to plan the audits, and for testing compliance with selected provisions of laws and regulations.

In order to fulfill these responsibilities, for each independent counsel, we

- examined, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the statement of expenditures and notes thereto, except items indicated as unaudited;
- assessed the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management;
- evaluated the overall presentation of the statement of expenditures;
- obtained an understanding of the internal control structure related to safeguarding assets, compliance with laws and regulations including execution of transactions in accordance with budget authority, and financial reporting;
- tested relevant internal controls over safeguarding assets, compliance, and financial reporting; and
- tested compliance with certain aspects of selected provisions of the independent counsel provisions of 28 U.S.C. 591-599 (1994), 5 U.S.C. Chapter 55, and implementing regulations relating to pay administration.

We limited our internal control testing to those controls necessary to achieve the objectives outlined in our statement on internal controls. Because of inherent limitations in any internal control structure, losses, noncompliance, or misstatements may nevertheless occur and not be detected. We also caution that projecting our evaluation to future periods is subject to the risk that controls may become inadequate because of changes in conditions or that the degree of compliance with controls may deteriorate.

We obtained, but did not audit, information on costs that were not paid from the permanent, indefinite appropriation established to fund independent counsel activities. We obtained information on these costs from the independent counsel offices; Justice, including the FBI; the Internal Revenue Service; the Office of Inspector General of the Department of Housing and Urban Development; the Office of Inspector General for the Department of Agriculture; the Office of Investigations of the U.S. Customs Service; and the Office of Inspector General of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

We discussed the results of our work with representatives of the six offices of independent counsel and representatives of AOUSC and Justice, and incorporated their comments where appropriate.

We performed our audits in accordance with generally accepted government auditing standards.

ARLIN M. ADAMS/LARRY D. THOMPSON

Office of Independent Counsel

Notes to Statement of Expenditures

Note 1 - Accounting policies

Reporting entity: The accompanying statement of expenditures presents the expenditures of the Office of Independent Counsel - Arlin M. Adams/Larry D. Thompson (OIC-Adams/Thompson) for the 6 months ended March 31, 1996. The statement of expenditures includes only expenditures made from the permanent, indefinite appropriation for the offices of independent counsel that are processed through the Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts (AOUSC) and the OIC. Mr. Adams was appointed on March 1, 1990, to investigate the administration of various programs of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) from 1983 to 1989. On May 15, 1995, Mr. Adams resigned his appointment, effective July 3, 1995, at which time he was succeeded by Mr. Larry D. Thompson as independent counsel.

Basis of accounting: The accompanying statement of expenditures was prepared principally on the cash basis of accounting, which is a comprehensive basis of accounting other than generally accepted accounting principles. Under this method, except for personnel compensation and benefits, expenditures are recorded when the funds are disbursed by AOUSC or, for noncash transfers, when charged by AOUSC. Most personnel compensation and benefits are recorded at the end of the pay period when earned.

Note 2 - Rent, communications, and utilities

Approximately $188,000 in office rent is included in rent, communications, and utilities.

Note 3 - Contractual services

Contractual services primarily consists of litigation support services.

Note 4 - Acquisition of capital assets

These assets remain the property of the federal government at the conclusion of the investigation. During this period, OIC-Adams/Thompson provided excess furnishings to another independent counsel. It also returned equipment to the General Services Administration as downsizing continued.

Note 5 - Administrative services

AOUSC receives an administrative fee equal to 3 percent of OIC expenditures for performing disbursement and accounting functions for OIC-Adams/Thompson. Payment of these fees generally occurs in the month following the services. Also included in administrative services are other costs, amounting to $26,755, incurred by AOUSC and Justice in providing administrative guidance and support to independent counsel offices. These costs were certified by AOUSC or Justice, paid from the independent counsel appropriation, and allocated to the OIC.

Note 6 - Other operating costs (unaudited)

Certain costs relating to employees assigned to work with the OIC by the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) and the Inspector General of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD IG) were financed through funds appropriated to these agencies and, accordingly, are not included in the statement of expenditures. These agencies are not reimbursed for these costs. The schedule below shows the estimated costs (unaudited) of the assistance provided to the OIC during the 6-month period, based on information provided by officials of these agencies.

The statement of expenditures includes only expenditures made from the permanent, indefinite appropriation for the offices of independent counsel that are processed through the Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts (AOUSC) and the OIC. Mr. diGenova was appointed on December 14, 1992, to investigate a preelection search of passport files. OIC-diGenova's investigation concluded on November 30, 1995, when the office issued its report. On January 11, 1996, Joseph diGenova resigned as Independent Counsel and was succeeded by Michael F. Zeldin. The office remained open while the Department of Justice and the OIC evaluated petitions for attorneys' fees. Approved fees will be paid from funds outside of the OIC's appropriations. The office closed on June 1, 1996.

Basis of accounting: The accompanying statement of expenditures was prepared principally on the cash basis of accounting, which is a comprehensive basis of accounting other than generally accepted accounting principles.
